

Weblinks

<http://www.fnha.ca/>

First Nations Health Authority (FNHA) took over Indigenous health in British Columbia that began back in 2005; entered into a bilateral agreement called the Transformative Change Accord in 2006 and is governed by the First Nations Health Council. FNHA provides program funding (ex. Medical Travel), service and program initiatives; such as, the Plan W (Pharmacare) or Vision, Dental and Medical Equipment and Supplies program offered by Pacific Blue Cross effective September 2019.

<http://fnhc.ca/>

The First Nations Health Council (FNHC) was created out of the negotiation back in 2005 and in 2006 signed the Transformative Change Accord to address the gaps in public health for Indigenous population in British Columbia. FNHC has a vast mandate to service Indigenous populations in British Columbia both politically and act as advocates for health change that is community-driven and nation-based.

<http://fnhda.ca/>

The First Nations Health Directors Association (FNHDA) was established in April 2010; as many Health Managers had vast knowledge, experience and education to offer technical support to the pillars of health for British Columbia's Indigenous populations.

<https://statimhealth.net/>

The St'at'imc Outreach Health Services (SOHS) history began in September 2015 as an unincorporated society and "is based upon the work of the Northern St'at'imc Health Leadership [LTC Chiefs as Board of Directors] and the Health Directors/Leads of Xaxli'p, Xwisten, T'it'q'et, Sekw'el'was, Ts'kw'aylaxw and Tsal'alh [known as the Health Advisory Committee]." SOHS provides numerous health services for the Northern St'at'imc area both on and off reserve.

<https://www.interiorhealth.ca/Pages/default.aspx>

The Interior Health (I.H.) provides health care within the Northern St'at'imc territory and works in partnership with the communities to provide more cultural safety health care for the Indigenous population.

<https://food-guide.canada.ca/en/>

The Government of Canada simplified their Canada's Food Guide so that Canadians can follow more easily. They provide information on eating habits and food choices and offer tips and recipes for all Canadians to follow.